President Durant, and Col. Seymour, Railroad, have laid before the President a review of the Special Commissioners' report on that read. The Commissioners state that of the six millions they have substituting wooden bridges with stone and iron ballasting, and additional equivalent to prepare for the rough travel when completed. They have not given the company credit for any of its works In progress. The Commissioners esti-mate that of this six millions about three millions will be required for locomotives, cars, etc. The company say that one-calf of this is already being prepared, and the remainder will be ready when wanted. the company does not admit that all of the expenditures recommended for additions; balissing, fencing, etc., now necessary, but express its readiness to and consents that the Government shall reserve sufficient security for the completion of the road for this purpose. The difference between the Commissioners and the Company's estimate is about $1,500,000. On 890 miles the Company report an expenditure of over $83,600,00 r grading, fron and equipment, and o work in progress and not completed.
